

CNC Support Services

What Are CNC Support Services from RMB Global?

RMB helps your company minimize expenses by offering a blend of onsite and remote services. Our team of J.D. Edwards experts offer remote services to keep your JDE system running efficiently and effectively.

Struggling with the high cost of CNC support?

Try RMB CNC Support Services

Reduce your operating costs:

- We can outsource your entire CNC support. For a smaller company, a permanent CNC staff position often isn't necessary. We can provide you with the CNC expertise when you need it, adding resources to handle upgrades when required.

Eliminate expensive consulting services:

- Remote services lets us provide you with superior service, when you need it, at a lower cost than our competition. Remote services eliminate travel costs, provide short-term services easily and saves time and effort.

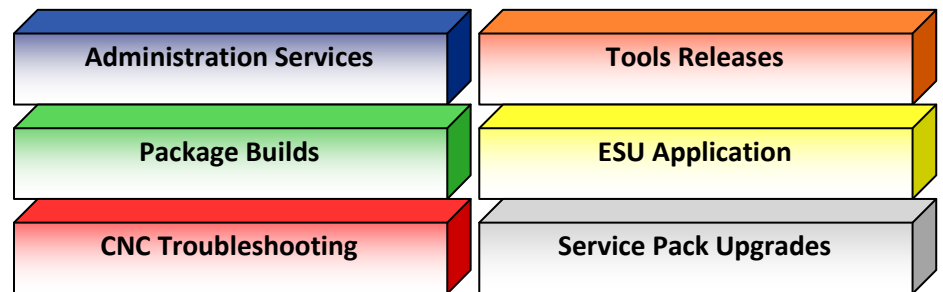

Get the services mix that's right for you:

- When you need the lowest cost, RMB provides remote services, and when you need someone on-site to deal with the really tough problems, RMB has local CNC specialists ready for you. RMB can provide you with the mix of services that ensures the right level of service at the lowest cost.

Having support when you need it can be critical to your business. RMB offers you a full array of support services when you need it. We are able to provide 24/7 support with all of your J.D. Edwards needs.

RMB provides more services, better options, better pricing and experienced people who understand your business needs.
